ARCHITECTURE DEMO

Agent Runtime

The game engine uses an ECS runtime. Input events and scene loading feed a fixed-tick scheduler. The scheduler advances the ECS world each frame. Systems query entities by component masks, mutate component stores, and stream resources through a cache. The world owns entity lifetimes and component registration, while systems do not own persistent state.